- Social and Behavioral Sciences has started an academic success program.
- Arts and Humanities has developed a Red Balloon Committee.

Mr. Ray reminded the Council of pre-registration November 5-19 and the importance that all faculty be in his/her office on these dates to advise students.

Dr. Debbie Bryant talked about on-line registration and the degree audit. She stated that the default criteria for on-line registration for an undergraduate student is a GPA of 2.50 or better, 60 hours of coursework, and in good academic standing. All graduate students must meet the default criteria. Deans and advisors can request to remove students from on-line registration.

Mr. Ray encouraged Unit Heads to send a recruitment letter to every prospective student requesting interest and information. Brochures and other information about UAM programs should be included with the letter when appropriate.

Mr. Ray reminded the Council that student evaluations of teaching should be done on CIV, on-line, and face-to-face classes. Mr. Ray stated that the faculty should not give evaluations to their own classes and that faculty should not see evaluations until the next semester.

Mr. Ray stated that no activities including meetings, social events, and fund-raising activities will be scheduled in the 24-hour period prior to the start of the official final exam period.

The Council discussed C & S proposals from Nursing, Social and Behavioral Sciences, and Business. The Council agreed to waive the 10-day review on all proposals and all proposals were approved. Ms. Linda Rushing provided the Council with an outline of proposals from the Colleges of Technology at Crossett and McGehee to be discussed at the next meeting.
